Accutest Laboratories Announces Acquisition of Entech Analytical Labs, Inc.

Dayton, New Jersey – Accutest Corporation, currently the third largest operator of environmental testing laboratories in the United States, has announced the acquisition of Entech Analytical Labs, Inc. of Santa Clara, California. Entech is a full service environmental testing laboratory, located in the heart of Silicon Valley, which provides superior lab services to industrial and consultant clientele in the Bay Area and northern California markets.

Accutest President and CEO Vincent J Pugliese commented on the acquisition. “We are very pleased to announce that Entech Analytical Labs will represent the initial platform for our strategic move into the California market. Entech will not only help us to serve our existing California customers better, but will also allow us to quickly build a much stronger presence in this key market area.”

“My staff and I are very excited to join the Accutest family, and we are looking forward to serving as the firm’s initial outpost on the west coast,” said Craig Thom, President and owner of Entech. “Accutest’s financial resources, operating systems, and strong reputation will help us grow our business even faster in the future. We think Accutest is positioned to become the true leader in the environmental testing industry.” The Entech management team will remain with Accutest. Thom will be the Managing Director of the California facility.

CEO Pugliese added, “Following our financial partnering last year with Bolder Capital, our strategy is now to build Accutest into a leading national company, with facilities in all the key market regions of the country. We have good market coverage in the eastern half of the country, but the next step of our growth strategy is to build greater presence in the western half of the country. Entech represents a critical first step in starting that strategic expansion.”

The terms of the transaction were not publicly disclosed. Steve Maxwell of Tech*KNOWLEDGE*y Strategic Group, Boulder, Colorado initiated the transaction and served as advisor to Entech Analytical Labs.
